

Day 3.

Point of View.

We will do three days on this as opposed to a term ☺ we may break it up so you don't get bored.

Point of View is essentially the perspective from which the story is told. Usually stories are told in third person or first person. Today lets look at third person. There are 3 types of third person narration ...but lets not worry about that just yet... lets just write and see what emerges

Choose a scene and put at least one of your characters in it.

- a) Witnessing something compelling or unsettling.
- b) Trying to find something important.
- c) Meeting someone once loved.
- d) Helping a stranger.

Write your scene in the third person. IE he said, she saw, they did etc.
Try for 500 words.
